

Event Greening Forum NPC

Membership Code of Ethics

The Event Greening Forum retains the right to request proof of compliance. The EGF shall apply this Code of Ethics as one of the criteria used in the selection of business partners and suppliers and strongly encourage that suppliers and their subcontractors/suppliers follow and support this Code of Ethics.

CODE OF ETHICS FOR MEMBERS (applicable for all Corporate, Supplier and Professional Service Provider membership categories):

- 1. Legal and Ethical Requirements: Forum Members shall comply with national and other applicable laws of the country in which they operate, including but not limited to those laws relating to labour, health and safety, the environment and the consumer .
- 2. Environmental Commitment: EGF Members are expected to demonstrate a strong environmental commitment and aggressive efforts to protect and restore the natural environment. In this regard, Members shall:
 - make their environmental policy available (preferably on their website);
 - implement a management system which demonstrates their environmental commitment;
 - publicly disclose environmental impacts and activities through regular reporting;
 - eliminate toxic and hazardous substances from products and operations where practical or feasible;
 - increase their operational efficiencies by minimising pollution and waste;
 - reduce use of natural resources including raw materials, energy and water;
 - take responsibility for proper waste management and any environmental problems associated with disposal of waste;

The EGF shall encourage Members and business partners to seek industry specific third party environmental certification in line with minimum government standards as a way to express their commitment to becoming more sustainable.

- 3. Social Commitment: EGF Members are expected to demonstrate a strong social commitment and efforts to protect human dignity. In this regard, Members shall:
 - promote human welfare and childrens rights;
 - treat workers with respect and dignity;
 - provide fair wages and comply with relevant labour regulations;

- provide workers with a safe and healthy work environment; and support the concept of fair trade and local economic development where possible.
4. Commitment to Continual Improvement: EGF Members shall respect the EGF Code of Ethics; promote more responsible business practices and be guided by a commitment to continual improvement in all their business activities.
 5. Termination: The Forum Members acknowledge that a breach of this Code of Conduct may result in immediate termination of Membership.
